Graduate Educational Objectives for Graduates of the Department of Computer Science 2012-2013 Academic Year:

Strategic Objectives

To fulfill this mission, the Computer Science Department strives for excellence in producing graduates who are well-rounded, grounded individuals with:

Knowledge Advancing and Understanding: Strong understanding of the state of the art in advanced work with a contribution that clearly advances the state of the art.

Critical Thinking: Produce original contributions with documented impact and clear objectives.

Communication: The ability to communicate effectively using both written and oral communication,

Professional Development: An awareness and understanding of the professional, societal, and ethical issues of the rapidly evolving computing industry and the judgment to apply this understanding.